Finding Aid for the Brinton B. Davis (1862–1952) Collection

Title: Brinton B. Davis Collection
Date Span: 1921–
Extent: 0.5 linear feet ; 1 box
Language(s): English

Description: Brinton B. Davis was an architect who practiced in Kentucky, Illinois, Georgia, Mississippi, and Tennessee. His buildings include the Jefferson County Armory and the Audubon Club in Louisville. The collection includes photographs of the architect's works, copies of expense accounts, biographical information, and copies of an address delivered at the Kentucky chapter of the American Institute of Architects in 1937. Original prints of photographs by Louisville photographer Henry Hesse document Davis' architectural sketches and buildings.

- Teacher College Heights. Vol. 17, January 1940, no. 5. Western Kentucky State Teachers College, Bowling Green, KY.
- Four books of photographs or sketches of buildings designed by Davis.
- Various service publications related to architecture and building dated 1917–1919

Folder 1
- Eighteen photographs of buildings

Folder 2
- Five pages of accounts payable and received (2 copies)
- Biographical reference to B. Davis, source unknown
- Biographical sketch of his military service
- Miscellaneous notes and pages
• Two sketches of the Kentucky Building, Western Kentucky State Teachers College
• Detailed Plans and Specifications for Receivador Cabinet Installations, sales catalog.