Although all of the following databases provide access to Spanish-language materials, Ethnic NewsWatch, Hispanic American Periodicals Index, JSTOR, and MLA International Bibliography are particularly good choices for articles and other documents in Spanish.

- Ethnic NewsWatch
  Bilingual (English and Spanish) full-text database of newspapers, magazines, and journals from ethnic, minority, and native publications (1960-Present).

- Hispanic American Periodicals Index
  Citations to journal articles, original literary works, and other documents about Central America, South America, the Caribbean, Mexico, Brazil, and Latinos in the United States (1970-Present)

- Humanities Index
  Citations to articles, reviews, interviews, original literary works, and other sources in the humanities (1984-Present).

- JSTOR
  Full-text journal archive covering all subject areas, including Latin American Studies.

- MLA International Bibliography
  Index of books and articles published on modern languages, literature, folklore, and linguistics (1926-Present).

- Political Science Abstracts
  Abstracts of materials from professional journals, major news magazines and books devoted to North American and international politics and political analysis (1975-Present).

- Sociological Abstracts
  Citations and abstracts from sociological journals, books, chapters, and more (1963-Present).

- World News Connection
